

- New individual tax rates: The new law sets seven individual brackets at 10%, 12%, 22%, 24%, 32%, 35% and 37%. The new 37% top rate applies to taxable income in excess of $500,000 for single filers and $600,000 for joint filers.
- No changes to capital gains and dividends: Capital gains and qualified dividends will continue to be taxed at the current 0%, 15% and 20% rates, depending on income. Wealthier filers will continue to pay an additional 3.8% tax on investment income, known as the Net Investment Income Tax.
- Increased standard deduction: The standard deduction will nearly double, to $12,000 for single filers and $24,000 for joint filers.
- Increased child tax credit: The per-child tax credit will double from $1,000 to $2,000.
- Increased exemption for Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT): The AMT will be retained for individuals, but the exemption and phase-out amounts have sharply increased.
- Mortgage interest deduction: Individuals will be allowed to deduct interest paid on new mortgages (issued after Jan. 1, 2018) of up to $750,000. That's down from the previous cap of $1 million. The deduction will also apply to second homes, but not for home equity lines of credit.
- State and local tax deduction: Taxpayers will be allowed to deduct up to $10,000 in a combination of property tax and income tax (or sales tax).
- Estate tax exemption doubled: Estates of up to $11 million (or $22 million for couples) will be exempt from taxation.
- Numerous other deductions and tax credits repealed: The law repeals deductions for investment expenses (such as advisor fees, but not investment interest expenses), safe deposit fees, tax preparation, moving expenses and alimony payments, among others.
- Expiration of most individual tax provisions: Virtually all of the provisions that apply to individuals are set to expire at the end of 2025. A future Congress would have to vote to extend them, otherwise they would revert to 2017 levels.
- Repeal of the individual mandate: Starting in 2019, the law repeals the requirement set by the Affordable Care Act that individuals purchase health insurance or pay a penalty.
- Preserves deduction for medical expenses: Medical expenses above 7.5% of adjusted gross income will be deductible in 2017 and 2018. Beginning in 2019, the threshold will rise to 10%.
- Reduction in the corporate tax rate: Corporations will be taxed at 21% beginning in 2018, down from today's top corporate rate of 35%.
- Reduction in taxes for "pass-through" businesses: Most so-called "pass-through" businesses, such as S corporations, limited liability corporations, partnerships and sole proprietorships, including those owned by trusts, will be allowed to deduct 20% of their income. There are special rules for certain types of services businesses. This provision is extremely complicated. Advisors may want to consult a tax specialist for details.
- Repeal of IRA "recharacterizations": The law repeals the ability of taxpayers to recharacterize, or undo, a Roth conversion, effective for conversions made after December 31, 2017. In January, the IRS issued guidance to clarify that conversions made in 2017 could be recharacterized by October 15, 2018.

Stay in Touch

We believe in the significance of educating our clients on important financial matters. We routinely deliver relevant information so our clients can make more informed decisions. We encourage you to sign up for our newsletter, entitled Market Insights. This newsletter provides relevant information concerning current economic conditions, how these conditions immediately impact markets, and general information on our firm's investment strategies. If you would like to receive Market Insights, please let us know at: clientservices@acumenwealth.com.

For the latest news, commentary, and analysis of the financial world, we encourage you to find us online at:

acumenwealth.com

Acumen Wealth Advisors

acumenwealthadvisors

Other issues of particular interest to investors:

- No changes to cost-basis rules: The Senate version of the legislation would have required investors to use the “first in, first out” (FIFO) method when calculating their cost-basis for stock sales. That provision was dropped from the final agreement. Investors will continue to have the ability to choose which lots of stock they are selling.
- Expansion of 529 college savings accounts: Up to $10,000 per year of money in a 529 college savings plan can be used to pay for K-12 school tuition.
- No major changes to retirement savings accounts: Contribution limits to IRAs, Roth IRAs, 401(k)s and other retirement plans were not changed.
- Gift tax exclusion increases: While this was not part of the new tax law, the IRS previously announced that the gift tax exclusion amount would increase from $14,000 to $15,000 for 2018.

Acumen Wealth Advisors, LLC® is a Registered Investment Adviser. This communication is solely for informational purposes. Advisory services are only offered to clients or prospective clients where Acumen Wealth Advisors, LLC® and its representatives are properly licensed or exempt from licensure. Investing involves risk and possible loss of principal capital. No advice may be rendered by Acumen Wealth Advisors, LLC® unless a client service agreement is in place.

The policy analysis provided by the Charles Schwab & Co., Inc., does not constitute and should not be interpreted as an endorsement of any political party, nor should the analysis be considered tax advice. Some of the statements in this article may be forward looking and contain uncertainties. This information does not constitute and is not intended to be a substitute for specific individualized tax, legal, or investment planning advice. Where specific advice is necessary or appropriate, Schwab recommends consultation with a qualified tax advisor, CPA, financial planner, or investment manager. For informational purposes only. Third party trademarks are the property of their respective owners and used with permission. Third party firms and their employees are not affiliated with or an employee of Schwab. Information included on this site is intended to be an overview and is subject to change. Experiences expressed by advisors may not be representative of the experience of other advisors and are not a guarantee of future success. © 2018 Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (“Schwab”) All rights reserved. Member SIPC.